NUMB. 3124

WEDNESDAY MARCH 7, 1744.

Madrid, February 17.

HE Conde Montijo arrived here on the 12th, and the next Morning went to wait on their Majesty's at the Pardo, in order to render them an Account of his Negotiations. All the World had their Eyes upon him, and on the Reception he met with; about which, however, there are very different Opinions. It certain, that he was alone with their Majesties about an Hour and a Quarter; and that, at his Return from his Audience, he look'd pleas'd, and even cheerful. But there nothing so deceitful as the Conduct of old Courtiers; so, whatever he might seem, it is certain he could not be pleas'd, the King having the Day before given him the utmost Reason to be otherwise. His Brother, Count de Mancera, was Lieutenant-Colonel of the 10th Life-Guards; the King promoted him, a few Days ago, to the Rank of Lieutenant-General; which every Body conceived to be with a View to the putting him at the Head of the Regiment, since that Post could not be fill'd up but to his Prejudice, who was next in Rank and Seniority; yet, the Day before the Conde Montijo's Arrival, his Majesty was pleas'd to declare that he had given the Spanish Guards to the Count de Galvo, and, at the same time, dispos'd of the Italian Guards to the Prince of Masseran. The Conde Montijo left the best Part of his Equipage at Bajonne, from whence, at first Sight, it might seem probable, that he had Thoughts of returning again either to Frankfort, or to Paris. But this now appears to be impossible, because the King cannot employ him without adopting a System of Politicks, which it is believed the Court will never do. This System has the Honour to be called, though, Imperial, as having been devised by the present Emperor; who first brought over M. Belleisle to assist him the Conde Montijo. As the Count de Mancera is appointed his Catholic Majesty's Minister at the Imperial Court, it is plain that Count Montijo is not to return thither; and it is not likely that he will be sent to Paris with a Publick Character from hence, after appearing there so lately with full Powers from the Emperor. In short, the only Chance he had, was to set himself at the Head of a new Ministry acting upon a new Scheme; but since his Interest could not procure his Brother Justice, it is not likely to procure him the first Place in the Administration; at least, such are the Conjectures here.

Vienne, February 26. The Archduchess, and Prince Charles of Lorraine, set out, about Two in the Afternoon, on the 23d, for Prague. The Queen and the Grand Duke accompanied them as far as Stockerau, and returned the next Morning to this City. It is now reported, that the following Disposition will be made for the next Campaign; viz. That an Army of 40,000 Men will remain in Bavaria, under the Command of Prince Charles and Marshal Konigsegg; an Army of Observation, consisting of 30,000 Men, will be assembled in Bohemia, under Field-Marshal Wallis; another Army of Observation, of 40,000 Men, in the Brisgau, under the Prince of Saxe-Meiningen; and the Prince of Saxe-Hildburghausen will have 15,000 Men under his Command, on the Adriatick, in order to succour, or to second, Prince Lobkowitz, as Occasion may require.

Berlin, March 3. The Credit of the Marquis de Vauri has been for some Time declining; and he appears now to have lost, in a great measure, the Confidence of the King; which is said to be owing to the many bold Stories of News, which have come from that Minister, and have afterwards proved false. The late Treaty between the Courts of Vienna and Dresden, has contributed also to this Event. His Majesty has, indeed, reliev'd upon the Augmentation of his Forces, but with View only to be in a Condition, to defend any Part of his Dominions, in case, during the present Troubles in Germany, they should be either insulted or attacked. As soon as the Court had Notice, that the Archduchess and Prince Charles of Lorraine were to set out on the 23d of last Month, and saw a Copy of their Route to Bruck, Orders were immediately issued, for paying them the highest Honours, in every Place of his Majesty's Dominions, thro' which they shall have Occasion to pass. A Report prevails, as if the Malecontents in Poland were become very numerous and powerful; his Majesty has thereupon caus'd the Court of Dresden to be inform'd, that he will not only prevent their receiving Succours, of any Kind, from his Dominions, but will also order Guards to be post'd, in such a Manner, as that, in case the Regular Troops, which have Orders to march against them, should defeat them, they may not be able to make a Retreat into his Territories.

Dunkirk, March 13. The 1st of March the Embarkation began, by sending Troops into our Road in Fishing-boats and Bilanders, after their having lain four Days in them in the Harbour. When they got into the Road, it blew so hard that they could not board their respective Ships, and were oblig'd to lie some Time at an Anchor; by which they suffer'd greatly, being so crowded, and having no Provisions but what they took in their Knapsacks. When those Men had boarded, the small Vessels returned for more, to which happen'd the same Fate; and some Bilanders founder'd, but how many were lost, is kept a Secret. There were, at the same Time, three Vessels loading in the Harbour with Chevaux de Frize (which are made after a new Invention, being very small, and served also for Tent Poles) Pickaxes, Shovels, &c. There were also some small Cannon, and some Battering Pieces. Last Saturday the Wind blow'd a Storm at N. E. when Seven of the Transports were driven on Shore; the Loss of the Troops on board them is not known. On Sunday several Colonels, and other noted Gentlemen, were sent for to come on Shore; the Wind shifted to the N. W. and blew hard again; so that on Wednesday, the 11th, one large Transport came on Shore, and the Morning following two more; all which are Ships about 200 Tons, except two. During the Time of the Wind, Signals of Distress were made by the Men of War, and constant Firing was heard, but no Help could get to them; and 'tis thought, if the Gale had continued a little longer, they must have all come on Shore. During the Storm the Troops suffer'd greatly, having no Provisions on board, and were almost famish'd. Yesterday, and this Day, the remaining Transports in the Road (which were Twenty-three) were order'd into the Harbour; but some are so large, they cannot well get in, so that the Soldiers must debar the same Way they embark'd. The Garrison consists of 20,000 Men. Since the Commencement of this Affair, we have had no Letters delivered to us, nor one Soul allowed to go out of the Town. Here are about 50 Sail of English detained in the Harbour. They took an English Cutter, which they mann'd with French, and sent her out to reconnoitre Sir John Norris. There are twelve Transports left in the Road, with four Men of War. The Admiral's Ship mounts seventy Guns; the three others are sixty Gun Ships. There are likewise two Frigates. Lord Marshall, and several other English, Scotch and Irish Gentlemen, are here. The Irish Brigades were in the Lower Town, and were order'd to Bergue: They are order'd down again, and are to work (as some say) to repair the New Harbour, where a Battery is to be made, on which they can mount 36 Guns. This last Paragraph is only Hear-say.

General Post-Office, London, February 8, 1743.

WH E R E A S the Post-Boy, going out with the West Mail from this Office, was this Morning, between Five and Six o'Clock, attack'd on the Highway at the Staling Place, on the other Side of Turnham-Green, by a single Highwayman, who took the said Post-Boy into a Field adjoining to the Road, and opened the Mail, and carried off the Exeter and Plymouth Bags: The Person, who committed this Robbery, is a middle-sized Man, and had on a Blue Great Coat, with his Hat tied over his Head, and he rode on a Sorrel Horse with a White Face, about Fourteen Hands high, and made off for Acton, the Oxford Road.

This therefore is to give Notice, that whoever shall apprehend and convict, or cause to be apprehended and convicted, the Person who committed this Robbery, will be intitled to a Reward of Two Hundred Pounds, over and above the Reward given by Act of Parliament for apprehending of Highwaymen: Or if any Person or Persons, whether Accomplices in the said Robbery, or knowing thereof, shall make a Discovery, whereby the Person who committed the same may be apprehended and brought to Justice, such Discoverer, or Discoverers, will, upon Conviction of the Party, be intitled to the same Reward of Two Hundred Pounds, and also have his Majesty's most gracious Pardon.

By Command of the Post-Master General,
George Shelocke, Secretary.

L O N D O N.

On Monday last, about Eleven in the Evening, arrived a Messenger from France; who, besides his Dispatches, brought a Verbal Account, that after three Days bloody Engagement, Admiral Mathews had defeated the French and Spanish Fleets entirely; having burnt, sunk, and taken all the 16 Spanish Men of War, except One; and having destroy'd four or five French Ships, and the Pursuit not over at the Time this News reach'd Paris.

Private Letters from Moscow say, that the Journey of the Court thither is like to prove fatal to the Negotiations of the Marquis de la Chetardie, of whom the Russian Nobility are inexpressibly jealous. His Reception at Court is also less gracious than formerly, on account of the Neglect of the Title of Empress in his Letters Credentials; which is a Point the Russian Ministry will never depart from.

We have an Account from Copenhagen, that the Abbe le Maire was lately invited to a Conference, in which he was given to understand, that, according to some late Advices from Stockholm, there were new Intrigues there, in which, it was suspected, his Court had a Share; but he declared, that this was a Thing altogether out of his Knowledge; and that he believed those Reports to be false.

The Prince of Orange, Fortfall, from Dublin for Lisbon, is taken by a Spanish Privateer, and carried into Vigo.

Cargo of the Neptune, from Borneo, arrived on Account of the United Company of Merchants of England, Trading to the East-Indies; viz. 442,600 lb. of Pepper. Besides several Parcels of Goods, the Particulars whereof are not yet known.

Yesterday a new Commission of the Peace pass'd the Great Seal for the County of Hampshire.

Yesterday was married at St. Paul's Church, Mr. William Port, an eminent Brewer in Whitecross-Street, to Miss Molly Hawkins of the same Place; a very agreeable young Lady, with a handsome Fortune.

The Right Hon. the Lord Chancellor has presented the Rev. Mr. William Hay, to the Rectory of Tollington-Knight.

His Lordship has likewise presented the Rev. Mr. Edmund Pryre to the Vicarage of Llanvllwchyarne in the County of Montgomery.

The Right Hon. the Lord Viscount Londale, Lord Lieutenant for the Counties of Westmoreland and Cumberland, has given strict Orders to the Deputy-Lieutenants, and Commanding Officers of each County, to order the Militia of each County to hold themselves in Readiness upon any Emergency.

Yesterday Morning a large West-Country Barge was sunk, by the Violence of the Wind, near Parliament Stairs, Westminster, loaded with Coals and Barley for Staines.

From the London Gazette.

Whitehall, March 6. Letters receiv'd last Night by a Messenger from Paris, advise, that there had been an Engagement in the Mediterranean, between his Majesty's Squadron, under the Command of Admiral Mathews, and the combined Fleets of France and Spain; which began on the 22d inst, N. S. and continued during that and the two following Days: That several of the Spanish Men of War had suffered greatly therein, and some of them had been driven, on the 24th, into Barcelona, and others into Carthagena. And the same Letters add, that the French Admiral, with Part of the Squadron of that Crown, had got into the Port of Alicant. A full Account of all Particulars is expected every Hour from Admiral Mathews.

His Majesty has been pleas'd to appoint Mordant Cracherode, Esq; to be Governor of Land-Guard Fort, and Captain of the Independent Company of Invalids doing Duty there, in the room of Baron Morris, Esq; deceased.

to the Pembroke Prize Sloop, having been directed to repair on board his Majesty's Ship the Ruby, at
